If metered reading averages less than 95% at the point of delivery for the month, the metered demand will be increased by multiplying the metered demand by 95% and thereafter dividing by the average power factor reading expressed in percentage as illustrated in the following formula:

If power factor is less than 95%, then adjusted billing demand =

$$\frac{\text{Demand} * 95\%}{\text{Power factor } \%}$$

Otherwise demand = demand

Customers residing outside the City Limits shall pay an additional 20% above the aforesaid rates.
